“ I just found out about Jimmy Derks death. He was about my age so this is a shock. He was very kind to my son Ike. He would take him to McDonald and film him and his kids skateboarding. He was a very loving husband to Jessy. I remember how happy he was to see every little improvement that she made after her brain injury. I thought Jessy was blessed to have a husband who adored her so much. I thought of him as a much better man than most of those who I come across. Heaven knows that.
