*Tribute to my beloved cousin,: Juliet
It hurts to so much to see you go but the pain and suffering is over! I am so grateful for the time we shared together over the years and especially over the Labor Day weekend 2024. I will never forget that weekend . Your smile kindness,, your courage and generosity. You will always hold a special place in our family and in our hearts. Gone not forgotten. Juliet, rest in peace until we meet again!

Some wise person said that bereavement is a sacred journey and I believe this to be true. Grief is indeed both personal and universal, and we cope with it on an individual basis. I reflect on the memories we shared and that often lift my spirits but there are times when I feel that death is too rapid and painful. It hurts so much to see you go but the pain and suffering is over! I am so grateful for the time we shared together over the years and especially over the Labor Day weekend 2024.

As I continue life's journey I will hold on to your kindness,, your courage and generosity to keep me lifted. You will always hold a special place in our family and in our hearts. Gone but not forgotten. Juliet, rest in peace until we meet again
