“ Tiffles,

We met when I was just 13 years old at District 202. In an instant, we became close and started dating (you know lesbians don't waste anytime lol). We shared so many great times together. I remember you meeting me at school, every day, and walking me home. I remember you supporting my mom when Soana and I were putting her through hell. I remember you and Dre ALWAYS making fun of me (in a good way lol).

You were ripped away from us way too soon. We will fight for your justice, and we will continue to honor your each and every day.

Rest in PEACE & POWER!

*Love,
Nola*

“ Tiff was one of my oldest and best friends, 27 years is a long time to love someone. I was 11 and she was just 10 years old when we met. Two silly girls, who grew up and saw one another through some of life’s greatest and most difficult moments. She had been center in my life, signed my marriage license, was one of the first at the hospital when my daughter was born, and sharing in the grief of being motherless daughters. We had so many laughs, so many jokes, and were blessed with a strong friendship. Although I’ll never laugh with you, have some great conversation or a good meal with you again, I find comfort in the fact that you’re in a place where there’s no more pain, no more suffering and sorrow. I will remember you always, cherish the memories and until we meet again, I love you Phats.
