“ I would like to extend my deepest sympathy to Mr. Mario Willilams Sr. Your son was very precious to me, and to all the staff and students in my classroom.

I would like to express my deepest sympathy to Mario's mom, Tasha who, as I told her, has been placed on this earth to be the best mother, and advocate, Mario could have ever had. My heart will be with you for many days to come.

“ As I go

*Into the stars I go, mom, I meant to bring you no pain
My leaving is only temporary, as I know we will see each other again.*

*Into the arms I go, I saw my granny and auntie awaiting my arrival
I fought 18 long years, I stared longingly, I gave my all, for my survival*

What a surprise for sure, on December 16th, when an angel extended its hand

I followed the hand through its glow, and came upon a smiling face, that was my grands

Excitement could not explain it, I jumped free, I could move upon my own

Assistance was no longer needed, and my angels were there to bring me home.

But leaving here was hard, I did not want to be gone without a trace

So, I left my mom a message, by placing a smile upon my face.

So, into the sky I go, now its my turn to watch over you.

Tell my brother I'll always love him, he's never alone and I'll watch him too.

So, mourn me not, please allow me to go, I'm home and I'm at peace.

I kiss upon your forehead's family, allow me to soar and to finally be free.

Into the gates I go leaving my love, for you all to hold.

Love you!

“ I will always remember how strong Mario was throughout his entire life as he fought to be here and make his presence known. As a small preemie he beat the odds and found his way into our hearts as an energetic young man that was ready to set the party off and join in with his granny as she let her siren free, signaling the party has started! Even after difficulties from surgery Mario still managed to surprise us from being able to eat on his own to being more alert. Mario sprouted up into a very handsome young man and had continued to steal the hearts of many from teachers at school, the nursing staff that helped care for him, to his family that visited and loved him.

Mario will be missed; however, he is free. The smile upon his face on the day he left us told me everything I needed to know. He would be o.k.; he was happy and his last image was one that made him happy. I'd like to think his granny Theresa and his auntie Brianna was there to greet him. I believe the smile left upon his face was for his mom, letting her know it's o.k., he is o.k. and he is "free". Selfishly, we would not want to let Mario go; however, we know he is happy and in great hands. I will miss seeing Mario when visiting; however, I know there will be a part of him always present and that he was happy and his life made a difference. I know the joy he brought to my cousin Tasha, and I remember how hard she prayed for him throughout his life. He helped strengthen her to be the awesome woman she has become and I know he would want her heart to be free from pain and to know he is always with her.
