“ He was/is well loved at 314 Hennepin. If residents don't show up in large numbers to the funeral, many have been enfeebled by 2 years of lockdown in pandemic and have prayed for him and are honoring his memory at home today. A lot of people are reminiscing around the building about what a good guy he was. He served as President of this building long ago, and in recent years represented the building on the Highrise Council. He gave years of his life manning the front reception desk from 6-9 a.m., day in and out, holidays included, even if he was awake during the night and could barely keep his eyes open at 6 a.m. He served for free. He often served more than one 3-hr. shift/day. He was trustworthy. He was reliable. He was there. He was kind, and almost a little shy. It's hard manning the front desk--residents and guests will try to bulldoze you. Nobody bulldozed Marvin. He ran the bingo games. He cleaned the building. Geneva Broadnax chided him for continuing his cleaning job, moving garbage cans, sweeping, after multiple surgeries, but he kept moving. I respect/ed and admire/d and like/d him. 30-40 people would show up to celebrate his birthday. Because he was constantly in service to us, I know his homecoming to Jesus's arms is happy, and he still lives more vibrantly without health issues.
