“ So sorry to hear that Rita had passed.
Haven't seen or talked to her for some time.
Met her when I worked in Dialysis. Rest in peace sweet sister.

“ I am just shocked to find this. I have kept up with Rita since we worked together years ago in the dialysis unit. I hadn't called her in a few months, and today was the day, only her number no longer worked.

Rita was one of my favorite people ever. So much common sense, so down to earth. We talked at length, I had learned a little about her growing up with her sisters and her grandparents, and eventually moving to Minneapolis. We discovered through talking that we had taken our nursing state boards at the same location and the same time. I remember Jess, and also when Jess was lost. I don't remember Rita actually ever finishing a sentence when we talked--she would just kind of trail off with "whatever all," or roll her eyes when that was appropriate. I always hoped I filled in the blanks correctly.

I have no idea about her passing. I had last talked to her a few months ago, and she was uncharacteristically crabby, but I was unaware of anything being wrong. I will miss her.
