“Vince, Rest In Peace my brother. I am at a total loss of words. I will always remember the occasional conversations we would share with each other.

“I can see you now trying to dance with that bad leg and trying to sing one of your favorite songs Watching You by Slave (off key of course) with all of us laughing having a good time and cracking jokes on each other.

Cousin I'm going to miss the times when we get together and I come to give you a hug and you holler out Beep beep beep wide load, wide load and run over and grab you up in in your chest to man handle you and the whole time you're cracking up. Cousin you're not only one of my first cousins you were like a big brother. Vincent Centee McKinney you will always live in my heart, I will always celebrate you by playing your favorite songs ect. I know you have transitioned and we will dance again. Tell Grandma, Anie, Terry, uncle Mark, uncle Michael and the rest of our loved ones that we love and miss them all. I love you and miss you dearly. Until we meet again cousin. You now have you wings. Love you!!
